IN PERFORMANCE AT THE COWELL

The Cowell Theater at Fort Mason, which opened in April 1989, is a performing space designed to present a broad spectrum of activities that reflect the cultural and ethnic wealth of the Bay Area. The goal is to create an environment where regional artists feel respected and nurtured, and audiences are challenged as well as entertained.

"In Performance at the Cowell" provides a pre-funded subsidy program for individual artists, emerging arts groups, and ethnic performing companies. It is a showcase for the talents of performing artists in music, dance, theater, film and video.

Fort Mason Center, through the Cowell Theater, can be a catalyst in the development, strengthening and exposure of many Bay Area artists. This series promotes the most innovative and diversified work being done by regional artists, and helps show visitors to San Francisco the rich variety of work that is being created in the community.

"In Performance" started in 1991, providing support for groups including Cobra Lounge, Wajumbe Cultural Institution, Teatro ng Tanan and Kidshows.

Funding was provided by the Fleishhacker Foundation and, for the past two years, San Francisco's Grants for the Arts. This month, the programs described below are presented as part of the series.

In May and June, the "In Performance" Dance Series will present six exciting companies: flamenco dancer La Tania; Anne Bluethenthal & Dancers with a 10th Anniversary Season performance of Excavations of the Spirit; Kathryn Roszak and Christopher Castle with Anima Mundi; Flying in the Face of Song with jazz singer Rhiannon, pianist Dick Hindman, and trapeze artist Susan Murphy; Double Feature with OnSite Dance Company's Stuntwork and Squad's The Receptionists; and Cheryl Koehler's Zig Zag Theatre with The Fish & The Fire. Look for details in next month's Calendar.

Siguaralla & Petit La Croix
Concepts Cultural Gallery presents an evening of African-rooted music and dance. Headlining the show is Siguaralla.

Composed of eight gifted musical artists specializing in Afro-Cuban culture, Siguaralla is led by the powerful vocalist and folklorist Bobi Céspedes, widely-acclaimed lead vocalist with the popular Latin dance band Conjunto Céspedes. Through Siguaralla, Bobi explores the roots of her musical evolution from the traditional songs and stories of African deities to the rumba of the cities.

Opening the show is the Afro-Haitian music and dance ensemble Group Petit La Croix, formerly known as Roots of Haiti. Under the artistic leadership of Blanche Brown, the group's musicians and dancers demonstrate the versatility of the traditional Haitian dance form. The pieces vary from Carnival celebrations to religious ceremonial pieces.

Siguaralla & Petit La Croix perform on Saturday, April 2 at 8pm. Tickets are $10. For information, call 763-0682.

Crosspulse & Friends
Keith Terry & Crosspulse, San José Taiko and the Redwood House Choir join musical forces in a multicultural exploration of voice, movement and drumming.

Crosspulse is a quintet of moving, singing drummers who weave the rhythms and moves of body music, jazz, Balinese gamelan, Afro-Cuban and Senegalese drumming with music from the Middle East and the Caribbean. Keith Terry & Crosspulse—

Susu Pampanin, Raymond Graham, Jacqueline Rago and Edgardo Cambón—preview selections from their debut album, scheduled for release on Redwood Records this spring.

San José Taiko and Redwood House Choir join them on Waitin' for the buzz, a composition by Terry and Cambón, and on Terry's Himba Sandu, both on the album.

San José Taiko fuses traditional Japanese, Latin, Brazilian and African rhythms, combining them with innovative lighting and staging to explore new territories in Asian American music. Its spellbinding aural and visual dynamics celebrate the excitement of ensemble drumming.

Elizabeth Seja Min's newly-formed Redwood House Choir is a twelve-member a cappella ensemble of young voices exploring the relationship between the voice and the drum. The Choir performs works written especially for it by Sweet Honey In The Rock's Ysaye Barnwell.

The concert is presented on April 9 and 10, Saturday at 8pm, Sunday at 2pm. Admission is $15 general, $14 seniors and students. Tickets are available in advance from City Box Office, 392-4400, and BASS, (510) 762-2277, and at the door just before performances.

ALI AKBAR KHAN

Hailed as one of the great geniuses of music, Ali Akbar Khan presents a special morning concert to celebrate Easter Sunday. Maestro Khan plays sarode, accompanied by the outstanding tabla player Swapan Chaudhuri, in Fort Mason's Cowell Theater.

A 1991 MacArthur Foundation award-winner, Maestro Khan has also been honored with the Bill Graham Lifetime Achievement Award, in affiliation with BAM Bay Area Music magazine.

A master of the classical music of North India, he has been recognized worldwide as a formidable musician whose depth and sensitivity is heard in the beauty of the sarode, a 25-string instrument. Violinist Yehudi Menuhin called him "an absolute genius...one of the greatest musicians in the world."

Khan opened the Ali Akbar College of Music in Marin County in 1968 "to spread the music as far as the sun and the moon shine." The college offers instruction in North Indian classical music, and a store with the finest products of famous Indian instrument-makers, as well as a large supply of recorded North Indian classical music.

The Easter Sunday performance is a tribute to Ali Akbar Khan's music, a celebration of his life as well as Easter, and an opportunity to participate in a rare morning concert with a man who brought Indian music to American audiences.

The concert takes place at 11am on Sunday, April 3. Tickets are $17 general, $14 students and seniors. All seats are reserved. For information and tickets, call 454-6264.

COUSIN MARTIN

After the death of his Irish-born-and-raised father, an American named Anthony McMahon journeys to North Dublin to visit his dear cousins and their four grown children. While Anthony looks for his roots and purpose in life, everyone around him carefully guards a forty-year-old family secret.

Questions about loyalty, family, sex, politics and commitment are raised in Cousin Martin, a new work by local playwright Andrew O'Hehir.

Cousin Martin was developed over a two-year period in director Bill Talen's Writers Who Act workshop, and previously staged with a student cast at UC's Zellerbach Auditorium. This production reunites actors Stephanie Hunt, Dennis Matthews and Joel Mullennix from the long-running San Francisco production of Stephen Berkoff's East.

The play also features Paul Colley, Linda Lowry, Katie Meagher and Esther Mulligan.

Playwright O'Hehir spent much of his childhood in Dublin with his father Brendan O'Hehir, a scholar of Celtic languages and literature. He is editor of SF Weekly and author of Impeccable Hearts, produced at Life On The Water Theatre in 1991.

Cousin Martin previews at the Bayfront Theater Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, April 1, 2, 4 and 5. Gala Opening Night is Wednesday, April 6; the show runs Thursdays through Sundays from April 7 through May 8. All performances are at 8pm. Tickets are $12 Thursdays, $14 Fridays and Sundays, $16 Saturdays. Preview performances are half-price. For information, call City Box Office, 392-4400.

LANDSCAPE GARDEN SHOW

Imaginative designs, unusual plants, and top-quality construction skills are displayed in the gardens of the ninth annual San Francisco Landscape Garden Show.

This year's show, "A Fair to Remember," commemorates the centennial of the California Midwinter International Exposition, held in Golden Gate Park in 1894. That historic event, also known as the Midwinter Fair, celebrated the bounties of California—its climate and culture, its horticultural and agricultural wealth.

This international exposition brought the world to California, giving many Bay Area residents their first glimpse of exotic places and people. More than 2,000 exhibits and concessions were created,

Japanese Tea Garden in Golden Gate Park, created for the 1894 Midwinter Fair.

HOME ON THE STREETS

The personal tragedy of homelessness, and its seemingly permanent place in the urban landscape, are the themes of the new exhibition at the Museo ItaloAmericano.

Executed by artist Marco Sassone during the course of four years, the fifteen large-scale oil paintings and twenty smaller black and white drawings are portraits of the homeless, as well as "landscapes," in which these people become an integral part of the urban scenery.

"The raw edge of these pictures is not their public rhetoric but their private agony," says art critic Peter Clothier in the exhibition catalogue. "Homelessness, for this exile artist whose roots are still not firmly planted in American soil or in American culture, is not eventually a social problem but a personal and deeply-felt emotional experience."

Born and raised in Florence, Italy, Sassone came to California in 1967. Seeking to go beyond the traditions of the Florentine Renaissance, he came to the United States in search of space, movement and artistic freedom. He currently lives and works in San Francisco.

Proceeds from sales of the exhibition catalogue and poster during the opening night reception benefit the Hamilton Family Center, San Francisco's only 24-hour emergency shelter for families.

"Home on the Streets" opens on March 30, with a reception from 7 to 9pm, and continues through May 29. The Museo is open Wednesday through Sunday from noon to 5pm. Admission is $2, except on Free Museum Day, the first Wednesday of each month, when admission is free and hours are noon to 8pm. For information about the exhibition, or other programs of the Museo ItaloAmericano, call 673-2200.

PRINTERS FAIRE

A delightful fine arts book printing event, the 20th Annual Printers Faire features displays of fine printing and book arts, letterpress printing, hand type and old-fashioned printing equipment.

Several dealers and creators of fine and rare books participate this year, including six of the world's best presses for miniature books—Feathered Serpent, Fignment, Juniper Von Phtizer, Poole, Sunflower, and The Good Book—as well as Moth Marblers, practitioners of the resplendent Turkish marbling style called ebru. Sponsored by the Small Press Club of Marin, the event also includes ex-answer questions about making gardens; displays for and by children; and the Garden Cafe.

In the Festival Pavilion, marvels of the 1894 Fair are recalled in fanciful sculpture of California produce. The Marketplace presents shops offering garden treasures and supplies. In the Greenbelt, nurseries showcase exceptional plants and recent introductions to the trade.

Horticulture Exhibits include informative displays by plant societies and environmental groups; Garden Talks are lively presentations by experts in all aspects of gardening and design. Refreshments are available at the Bayview and Concourse Cafes.

Proceeds benefit Golden Gate Park and other city parks through Friends of Recreation and Parks. The Opening Night Party, on Tuesday, April 19 from 6 to 9pm, includes a preview of gardens and an elegant buffet in the Herbst Pavilion, with shops and displays open in the Festival Pavilion from 5 to 7pm. Preview party tickets are $100; for ages 35 and under, $75.

The Landscape Garden Show is open April 20 through 24, 10am to 6pm daily; Friday, April 22, the show remains open until 9pm. Admission is $10; seniors (over 65) and prepaid groups $8; children under 12 free if accompanied by an adult. For information, call 750-5105.

DATELINE: PARIS

Sometime late in June, a small group of journalist wannabes departs Fort Mason for a journey along the same path followed in years past by the likes of Edward R. Morrow, Peter Arnett, and Sylvia Poggioli. They'll be on their way to Paris, France, and potential careers as foreign correspondents.

Larry Bensky, who teaches journalism at Cal State Hayward and Stanford, is instructor for Dateline: Paris, the 1994 Media Alliance Foreign Reporting Workshop, taking place in France from June 27 to July 8.

Bensky, national affairs correspondent for Pacifica Radio, has done freelance reporting in France, Spain, Cuba, and Nicaragua for a variety of broadcast and print media, including the Bay Guardian, National Public Radio and The Nation.

The class focuses on the nuts and bolts of being a foreign correspondent. The format is part lecture, part hands-on story development and reporting. Students will research and develop a complete report for print or broadcast media on a topic of their own choosing. Pre-trip individual counseling assists students in exploring freelance assignments.

Participants are introduced to the culture, politics and journalism of France, with guest lecturers providing additional perspectives.

Tuition for the two-week course is $550, $450 for Media Alliance members. This does not include travel expenses or room and board, but Media Alliance will help arrange inexpensive accommodations in Paris. Fluency in French is not required. For information, call Media Alliance, 441-2559

EASTER BASKETS FOR AIDS

Three years ago, Acorn Tea and Griddle Restaurant owner Robert Schneider and his friend Peggy Knickerbocker wanted to honor their many friends who had died of AIDS. They wanted to do something that would fight AIDS and show their determination to continue until a cure was found. Easter and spring were just around the corner, so Peggy and Robert decided to sell flowers, toys, and food as a loving and playful way to remember their friends and raise money for AIDS organizations.

Each year since then, the scope of the sale has increased. The Third Annual Easter Basket Sale For AIDS features creations by some of the Bay Area's top restaurants, bakers, caterers, florists, confectioners, toy stores, artists, designers, vintners and organic growers.

Donors have assembled over 400 lavish, entertaining and amusing Easter Baskets, with abundant displays of wonderful edibles, flowers, toys, jewelry, books, gift certificates and more. Purchasers who come early will get first chance to buy the highly-prized wild mushroom baskets, the California olive-inspired creations and the cookie, cake and chocolate baskets.

This year, two organizations will share the benefits of the Easter Basket Sale. The Marin AIDS Project provides direct client services to people living with HIV/AIDS, as well as HIV prevention education and training to Marin County residents, including the population of San Quentin Prison. The San Francisco HIV Positive Youth Speakers Bureau provides training and support so young people can share their stories with peers to help stem the spread of AIDS.

The Sale is open from 10:30am to 2:30pm Saturday, April 2 in the Conference Center in Building A. Admission is free. For information or to donate baskets, contact Gary Reiman at the Marin AIDS Project, 332-1244.

510 PHOTOGRAPHERS

Union Local 510, Sign Display and Allied Crafts, presents an exhibition of photographs by members in Fort Mason's Bayfront Gallery.

The work included in the show reflects both the diversity of the union's membership and the range of work being done by serious photographers today.

Local 510, with a membership of more than 500, is a microcosm of society at large. Members work behind the scenes, installing the trade shows and conventions that are a vital part of the Bay Area economy.

The irregular hours, days and nights, of the work "make room for the unconventional and allow time to pursue the muse," according to one of the participating photographers.

The concept of this show is two-fold: to showcase the work of the photographers as artists, and to celebrate their diversity of vision and view of the world.

Among the works on exhibit are images of the Berlin Wall before its destruction; architectural studies of North African places of worship; infrared landscapes; mezzotints; social commentary in large Cibachrome format; and color abstractions.

The exhibition, "510 Photographers' Group Show," runs from April 5 through May 29. There is an opening reception on Saturday, April 9 from 1 to 4pm. The Bayfront Gallery is open before, during and after performances at the Cowell Theater. For schedule information, call 441-5706. For exhibition information, call 821-7600.
